City Administrator Linwood - The City of Wyoming is evaluating potential Tax Increment Financing

(TIF) support for two proposed housing developments. Both projects require financial assistance to move forward and to be competitive in the 2025 Multifamily Consolidated Request for Proposals and 2026 Housing Tax Credit Round 1 process.

Mikaela Huot – Baker Tilly - Ms. Hout gave a presentation on the two projects and the following summary:

The first is a 60-unit senior housing project proposed by Duffy Development, known as Wyoming Senior Apartments. The project would include a mix of studio, one-bedroom, and two-bedroom units, with income limits ranging from 30 percent to 50 percent of the area median income (AMI). The average income level across units would be 49 percent, providing deeply affordable options for senior residents in the community. This project is seeking approximately $317,000 in TIF assistance, to be reimbursed over time through a 26-year pay-as-you-go arrangement.

The second proposal is Fairview Apartments, a 72-unit workforce housing project by Reuter Walton Development, located at 5400 Fairview Boulevard. This project would include one- to four-bedroom units with income limits ranging from 30 percent to 60 percent of AMI, with an average of 46.81 percent across all units. The development is designed to support working families and individuals in Wyoming and the surrounding area. The project is requesting an estimated $356,000 in TIF assistance over a 26-year pay-as-you-go term.

Both projects meet the statutory "but for" test for TIF, meaning they would not proceed without the financial assistance. The City would retain 10 percent of the annual tax increment for administrative costs, with the remaining increment used to reimburse developers for eligible project expenses.

Council Member Schilling – Stated he is in favor of the projects but asked if the duration of the TIF's can be reviewed if the projects were to be selected by the State.

The EDA had some questions about the use of TIF for the project and some more general questions on its use in generality, not only just for this project.

Nancy Hoffman – Chisago County – The HRA/EDA will be doing a $200,000 loan for the Rueter Walton Project and for the Duffy Development they would be 50/50 owners of the proposed project.

A MOTION WAS MADE BY MEMBER IVERSON SECONDED BY SCHILLING TO RECOMMEND APPROVAL OF ASSISTANCE FOR THE DUFFY DEVELOPMENT AND RUETER DEVELOPMENT TO THE WYOMING CITY COUNCIL

Re: Wyoming Economic Development Authority

Your Honor and Mr. Linwood:

Due to my commitments at Lakes Gas, I am finding it difficult to attend EDA meetings, especially in the spring and summer when my job requires attendance at a number of company and industry events. As you know, I've missed the last couple of meetings, and the schedule does not look better in the next few months.

My absences are not helpful to the EDA, and will inevitably cause some issues with maintaining a quorum. My ability to help the economic development in the area is also limited due to my lack of familiarity and history in the community.

For those reasons, I regretfully tender my resignation from the EDA.

I am impressed with the leadership in the city, especially Mayor Iverson and Robb, who are doing an outstanding job representing the community. Lakes Gas (and myself personally) wish to continue our support of the city – and if there is anything we can do to help, please let me know. Thank you for allowing me to serve over the past year.

Sincerely,

Trent Hampton

Wyoming's EDA Business of the Month for August:

The Hallberg Center of the Arts Awarded the Non-Profit of the Year by the Forest Lake Area Chamber of Commerce. For 10 years, the Wyoming Area Creative Arts Community has owned and operated this art center to bring the arts to our community through incredible art shows highlighting hundreds of artists, showcasing the talents of regional songwriters, and bringing classes and events into this and the surrounding communities.

The Hallberg Center for the Arts, nestled in Wyoming, MN just north of the Twin Cities, is owned and operated by the Wyoming Area Creative Arts Community. In 2015, this young organization raised enough money to purchase this historic old church building with the vision of turning it into a center for the arts. It's named after it's biggest donor, the Hallberg Family Foundation.

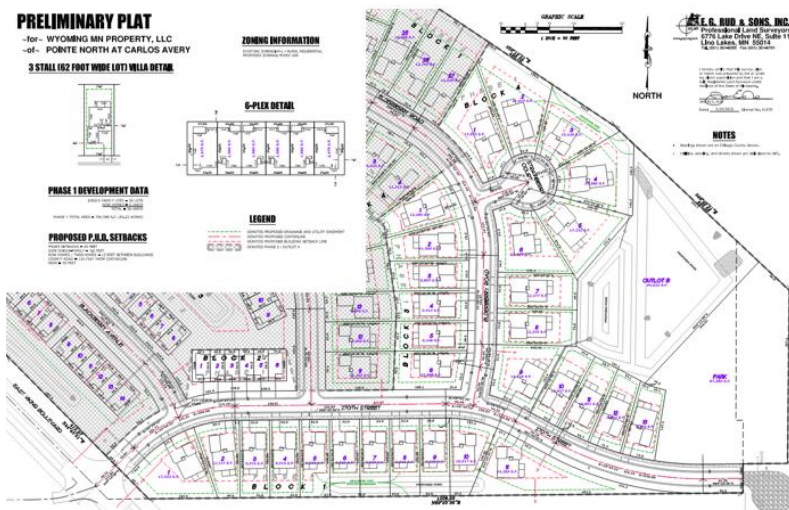

Today, the Hallberg Center for the Arts hosts new exhibits, concerts, and classes every month, bringing in artists from throughout the Midwest to share their artwork in this unique venue.

Our mission is to encourage creative expression, promote networking of local artists of all ages, and champion a learning environment that builds community participation in the arts.

The Pointe North at Carlos Avery – Phase 1 project proposes a Planned Unit Development (PUD) featuring a mix of housing types, including 30 single-family homes and one six-unit row home. The development is located within a Mixed-Use zoning district and is consistent with the city’s Comprehensive Plan. It includes individually platted lots governed by association covenants, with architectural standards specifying materials such as brick, stone, stucco, and engineered wood siding. Park dedication requirements are addressed through a proposed 2-acre park and a partial cash-in-lieu payment for the remaining land dedication.

The development will gain access via Viking Boulevard, with anticipated turn lanes at both access points, and includes internal sidewalks. Utility infrastructure will be extended through a future commercial outlot to serve both this neighborhood and adjacent developable land. Drainage and stormwater planning comply with NPDES requirements, and a lighting and landscaping plan has been submitted with minimal tree removal anticipated in Phase 1. The preliminary plat for Phase 1 was approved by the City Council at its July 1, 2025, meeting, and next steps include final plat approval and plan modifications to reflect the approved conditions.
